Student Pharmacists from Ohio Northern University Collaborate with Jackson Pharmacy & Wellness Center to Provide Patient Care Services in the Jackson Center Community

Patient Care Services are Available on November 9th

Jackson Center, Ohio – September 19, 2019 – Jackson Pharmacy & Wellness Center is excited to host student pharmacists from Ohio Northern University Raabe College of Pharmacy and offer a variety of pharmacy care services for people in the Jackson Center Community on Saturday, November 9th from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

“We are excited about having the student pharmacists working in our pharmacy,” said Alison Haas, PharmD, owner of Jackson Pharmacy & Wellness Center. “It is great to see them applying their patient care training with people in our community. We are excited about the energy they’ll bring to the pharmacy.”

The pharmacists and students will be offering free blood pressure screenings as well as free medication and immunization reviews to anyone in the Jackson Center community.

Student pharmacists from across the nation are participating in the “National Day of Service” an engagement program organized through the ACT (Academia-CPESN[®] Transformation) Pharmacy Collaborative. The ACT Pharmacy Collaborative is an operational learning and acting collaborative between schools of pharmacy and established clinically integrated networks of community-based pharmacies. “Here at Ohio Northern University Raabe College of Pharmacy, our faculty and staff have been focused giving our students the education, the training and the real-world experiences to help them navigate the ever-changing pharmacy industry,” added Emily Eddy, PharmD, Assistant Dean. “Partnering with CPESN[®] pharmacies that are paving the way for pharmacies to focus on patient care delivery versus simply putting pills in bottles is an excellent way to get our students exposed the future of community pharmacy.”
